

Hello everyone! And welcome to our Wednesday Word devotion for today, August 12, 2020. Thank you so much for tuning in and taking this time out of your day to focus on God and focus on your faith.

Also, before we begin today, I'd love to invite you to join in our outdoor, worshipful gathering this evening at 7pm at Mt. Zion. Please bring a lawn chair, your mask, and your own communion elements as we worship outdoors in a socially distanced way. If you're not able to or comfortable joining us in person, we will also have a live stream going on our Facebook page, so tune in there at 7pm if you'd like to join us.

As for our devotion today, I am so glad to be continuing this series of psalm and prayer for you all! If you have any requests for prayer or a psalm, please feel free to reach out and we can make that happen.

So now let us dive into today's psalm, which I chose to go along with the theme for this evening's worship service, and that is hope. Today's Psalm is Psalm 104, a trust psalm, that praises God for being the creator and provider of all things, in all times and places, and God's ability to create and sustain new life certainly gives us hope.

Bless the Lord, O my soul.

- O Lord my God, you are very great.
You are clothed with honor and majesty,
2 wrapped in light as with a garment.
You stretch out the heavens like a tent,
3 you set the beams of your chambers on the waters,
you make the clouds your chariot,
you ride on the wings of the wind,
4 you make the winds your messengers,
fire and flame your ministers.
- 5 You set the earth on its foundations,
so that it shall never be shaken.
6 You cover it with the deep as with a garment;
the waters stood above the mountains.
7 At your rebuke they flee;
at the sound of your thunder they take to flight.
8 They rose up to the mountains, ran down to the valleys
to the place that you appointed for them.
9 You set a boundary that they may not pass,
so that they might not again cover the earth.
- 10 You make springs gush forth in the valleys;
they flow between the hills,

- 11 giving drink to every wild animal;
the wild asses quench their thirst.
- 12 By the streams the birds of the air have their habitation;
they sing among the branches.
- 13 From your lofty abode you water the mountains;
the earth is satisfied with the fruit of your work.
- 14 You cause the grass to grow for the cattle,
and plants for people to use,
to bring forth food from the earth,
- 15 and wine to gladden the human heart,
oil to make the face shine,
and bread to strengthen the human heart.
- 16 The trees of the Lord are watered abundantly,
the cedars of Lebanon that he planted.
- 17 In them the birds build their nests;
the stork has its home in the fir trees.
- 18 The high mountains are for the wild goats;
the rocks are a refuge for the coneys.
- 19 You have made the moon to mark the seasons;
the sun knows its time for setting.
- 20 You make darkness, and it is night,
when all the animals of the forest come creeping out.
- 21 The young lions roar for their prey,
seeking their food from God.
- 22 When the sun rises, they withdraw
and lie down in their dens.
- 23 People go out to their work
and to their labor until the evening.
- 24 O Lord, how manifold are your works!
In wisdom you have made them all;
the earth is full of your creatures.
- 25 Yonder is the sea, great and wide,
creeping things innumerable are there,
living things both small and great.
- 26 There go the ships,
and Leviathan that you formed to sport in it.
- 27 These all look to you
to give them their food in due season;
- 28 when you give to them, they gather it up;
when you open your hand, they are filled with good things.

29 When you hide your face, they are dismayed;
when you take away their breath, they die
and return to their dust.
30 When you send forth your spirit, they are created;
and you renew the face of the ground.

31 May the glory of the Lord endure forever;
may the Lord rejoice in his works—32 who looks on the earth and it trembles,
who touches the mountains and they smoke.
33 I will sing to the Lord as long as I live;
I will sing praise to my God while I have being.
34 May my meditation be pleasing to him,
for I rejoice in the Lord.
35 Let sinners be consumed from the earth,
and let the wicked be no more.
Bless the Lord, O my soul.
Praise the Lord!

And now please join me in prayer:

Lord God, creator and provider of all things, come to our help in our moments of need. We thank you for the assured promise that you are with us, and Lord, we need you with us as so many new things must be created these days. We need your holy providing for treatments and cures for this pandemic, for the best ways to keep our families safe and healthy as school begins, to fill our hearts with your Spirit as we are lonely and grieve in this time of distancing. Help us to be strong as we love you and our neighbors, as we work towards your reign of justice and mercy for all people, especially those who are systemically oppressed in our country and our world. God we pray for your holy comforting, your empowering spirit of hope and joy to fill us and carry us in all things. We praise you for your creative power, O God, and may we follow your desire to create new life for us all, through the gift and promises of your Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

Thanks again for tuning in everyone! Go in peace, have a beautiful day. Amen.
